Picture Description¹⁾

A long, metal outdoor exercise equipment sits on a grassy field under trees, appearing aged and unused.

Analysis¹⁾
