Empty Wheat III

Picture Description¹⁾

A high-angle, black and white photograph shows a dense field of stubble after a harvest, with the upright stalks creating a visually textured pattern.

Analysis¹⁾

This stark, high-contrast black and white photograph presents a field of stubble, likely after a harvest. The image's perspective is close, creating a dense, almost abstract texture of light and shadow. The remaining stalks, appearing as elongated, vertical lines, dominate the composition, their tips catching the light and creating a bright, almost luminous quality against the dark ground. The overall effect is one of stark beauty and quiet desolation, emphasizing the cyclical nature of agriculture and the residue of human intervention in the landscape.
